Full throttle out of the niche - Woell Marine sponsors WS Racing and its GILRS ONLY team

In the marine industry, a company that was only founded in 2015 is considered very young. It takes a lot of power and a disproportionate will to gain acceptance in an industry perceived as conservative.

"We are persistent and, when we get the chance, super flexible and very fast," says Sascha Woell about the family business Woell Marine GmbH, which started with the service of life-saving equipment on ships of all kinds. Since then, thematically appropriate trading areas have been added, as well as innovative services such as underwater inspections.

Underwater inspections with drones make a significant contribution to flexibility and cost savings for ship owners and and ship managers. ROV inspections may often be faster, safer and make necessary repairs immediately visible. That is why Woell Marine offers this innovative RINA-certified service worldwide.

Sascha Woell's awareness of safety, his curiosity to test new things and his DNA as a young company that constantly has to assert itself against the competition lead him to think outside the box, not only in his daily business. But safety and reliability can only be achieved as a team - this is what Woell Marine stands for in shipping and what the WS Racing Team stands for in motorsport.

Sascha Woell comments on his commitment as follows:

"As a global service provider, values such as openness, diversity and team spirit are part of our corporate DNA. That's why we're always happy to support dedicated teams from other areas".

For those who haven't had Woell Marine on their radar yet: it always makes sense to have an alternative up your sleeve and it's worth taking a second look.

"We are very excited about this year's 24 hour race at the Nürburgring and are keeping our fingers crossed for the WS Racing Team. In our

About Woell Marine GmbH:

As a comparatively young company in the tradition-rich shipping industry, the service provider and the team around managing partner Sascha Woell have been successful on the market since 2014. As an expert in the maintenance and certification of safety equipment, the range of services initially focused on this area and now also includes load testing, repair services and the supply of spare parts for lifeboats & davits, fire fighting equipment and personal lifesaving equipment. www.woellmarine.com

About WS Racing - GIRLS ONLY:

The idea of creating a women-only team first emerged at the race track in 2015. In spring 2018, Nicole Willems, wife of Thorsten Willems (team principal of WS Racing), took up the idea of a women-only team and developed a concept of a women-only team together with her husband. www.ws-racing.com/girlsonly
